

Quarterly Report of Appeals, Complaints and Advice – EE Strict

The BBFC is the regulator of commercial and internet content delivered via the mobile network of EE for its 'Strict' level of mobile content.

In the interest of transparency, the BBFC publishes all of its adjudications in relation to cases reported to it of purported underblocking or overblocking, along with requests for advice on whether particular content should go behind parental controls or adult filters.

We keep this list updated as and when new cases are reported to us and publish updates every three months.

In all cases, the BBFC conveys its adjudication to (i) the complainant, appellant or person or body seeking advice; and (ii) the mobile network operator EE.

In the following cases, the adjudications represent an assessment of the content according to the terms of the BBFC's EE Strict Classification Framework. Any subsequent changes to content have therefore not been viewed by the BBFC, although we reserve the right to change our adjudication should altered content be brought to our attention subsequently.

All websites that the BBFC would classify 18 or R18, or refuse to classify, would be automatically considered unsuitable for the EE Strict Classification Framework. Further information on the original Quarterly Report adjudications are available on the BBFC's website here.

January 2016

Website

nicholaswinton.com

Adjudication

The BBFC viewed the website on 29 January 2016.

We noted that it was a website celebrating the life and work of Sir Nicholas Winton, who was known for organising the rescue of hundreds of Czech children from Nazi-occupied Czechoslovakia prior to World War Two. The site contained a news section, a biography of Sir Nicholas Winton and a picture gallery. It also contained a section focusing on the rescued children with contemporary records of their details. As such, we found no content that we would consider unsuitable for people under the age of 12 according to the EE Strict Classification Framework.
